

Alexandria Gazette.

TUESDAY EVENING, AUGUST 8, 1882.

A CHURCH PENANCE.—Great interest and no little amusement was excited by a scene last Sunday in a church at Cleveland, in Somerset. A young man did public penance for the seduction of a girl, who was awaiting trial for manslaughter. The church was crowded. After evening prayer, when the vicar entered the pulpit, he told the congregation that they were about to deal with a matter of most ancient character—a case of church discipline. The church warden then brought the man into the church. On reaching the chancel steps he knelt down, and the church warden handed the vicar a paper, which contained the following declaration: "I, Lowell Hartree, do acknowledge myself to be guilty of a most grievous sin, for which I do hereby ask forgiveness of my fellow-men, of the woman I have wronged and of Almighty God. In proof of my repentance I promise to carry out whatever penance may be laid upon me in presence of this congregation." The vicar accounted that the penance was that the man should go to the Assize Court and take his place by the unfortunate girl at the bar. In reply to the vicar's question whether he would accept the penance, he replied: "Yes." On Wednesday the girl was tried at the Wells Assizes and was sentenced to one month's imprisonment for concealment of the birth of her infant, the graver charge of manslaughter having been set aside. This incident has called forth much discussion in the papers. It is asked: "Are we going to have a revival of Church discipline?" Some papers make a deal of fun of the case, while some church papers treat it in quite an opposite style.—London Cable Letter to N. Y. Herald.
